CITINO, From Arab Nationalism to OPEC: Eisenhower, King Saud, and the Making of U.S.-Saudi Relations (Bloomington, Ind.: Indiana University Press, 2002). Pp. 256. The relationship between Saudi Arabia and the United States of America was economically strengthened in 1933, when Standard Oil of California was given a concession to explore the Saudi Arabian lands for oil. With 2001, the US and Saudi Arabia began working together against a common enemy that the Saudis had already been fighting for years: Violent Islamist extremists. Eisenhower opposed the plan because of anti-Soviet purposes, but King Saud had admired the act and decided to start cooperating with the U.S. [18] As a result, Egyptian power greatly declined while U.S.-Saudi relations were simultaneously improving. Cold War and Soviet containment[edit]. In 1957, Saud decided to renew the U.S. base in Dhahran. From Arab nationalism to OPEC : Eisenhower, King Sa'ud, and the making of U.S.-Saudi relations.
