Ioannis D. Evrigenis is a Greek-American political philosopher. He is a Professor of Political Science at Tufts University. Evrigenis received his B.A. in political science from Grinnell College in 1993. He earned a M.Sc. from the London School of Economics & Political Science in 1994. From 1994 to 1996, Evrigenis served as an artillery quartermaster in the Hellenic Army, holding the rank of second lieutenant. In 2002, he received an M.A. in political science from Harvard University. In 2005... Biography Ioannis D. Evrigenis teaches courses on ancient and early modern political thought, the social contract, and ethics and international relations, as well as seminars on Plato, Machiavelli, Hobbes, and political theory methods. He holds a B.A. from Grinnell College, an M.Sc. from the London School of Economics & Political Science, and A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University. His doctoral dissertation was awarded the Herrnstein Prize. Vol. 15, 2015. Review of Ioannis D. Evrigenis' Fear of Enemies and Collective Action. Steiris Georgios Assistant Professor of. 1 Ioannis Evrigenis's monograph was originally published in English as Fear of Enemies and Collective Action (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2015). Quite the same Wikipedia. Just better. Evrigenis received his B.A. in political science from Grinnell College in 1993.[1] He earned a M.Sc. from the London School of Economics & Political Science in 1994.[2] From 1994 to 1996, Evrigenis served as an artillery quartermaster in the Hellenic Army, holding the rank of second lieutenant.[2][3] In 2002, he received an M.A. in political science from Harvard University. Ioannis D. Evrigenis. Fear of Enemies and Collective Action. Evrigenis bases his analysis on the arguments of political thinkers from ancient Greece to the twentieth century: over eight chapters, he discusses Thucydides and Aristotle, Thucydides and Sallust, Machiavelli, Bodin, Hobbes, Rousseau, Schmitt and Morgenthau. It is worth noting that one of the main advantages of Evrigenis's book is that he respects the authors he comments on.
